1.1 What the invoice is for:

1.2 ☐ The goods or services were received, and the invoice matches the order or contract

2. Checks before approval

2.1 Before an invoice is approved, the approver confirms, by ticking each box, that it has been checked. If any of these is not checked, the invoice should not be paid until the reason is recorded in the note below.

2.2 ☐ The price and quantities match the order or contract

2.3 ☐ The goods or services were delivered or carried out as described

2.4 ☐ The invoice has not been paid already and is not a duplicate

2.5 ☐ There is budget for it, and the right cost center or project is recorded

3. Questions about an invoice

3.1 If the approver is not sure about an invoice, they should not approve it. They should write the question in the note below and return the form to the sender, who will ask the supplier and send the form back with the answer. An invoice that is queried is paid only once the query is resolved and the approver has signed.

4. After approval

4.1 An approved invoice goes to the person who makes payments, who will pay it by its due date. The approver's signature and date on this form are the record that it was approved, and the form should be kept with the invoice for as long as the business keeps its financial records.

5. The approver's decision

5.1 Decision: _____

5.2 Note, if any (for example the corrected amount, or the reason for refusing):

5.3 ☐ I have the authority to approve payments of this amount
